

Delta Quadrant 4

Table of Contents

- Bio-neural Banter page 3
 A note from the editor
- Burdens of Command page 4
 by Ruth Ann Jones art by Beverly Chick Tom Paris knows he's one of the best pilots around. What he doesn't know is if he has what it takes to be in command—until an accident incapacitates the entire senior staff and he is left alone to save the Voyager
- Finding the Balance page 22
 by Patricia Hammer art by Laura Bowen Kathryn Janeway finds herself inexplicably drawn to the planet that the Voyager is orbiting. Why?
- Faces of Justice page 34
 by William B. F. Vodrey
 Captain Kathryn Janeway has a dilemma. She has made a threat to the Vidiians, and after the capture of her Away Team on Avery III, she feels that she must make good on the threat. But, she must also remember her Starfleet oath. Can she walk the fine line of justice, or will she seek revenge for her crew?
- Breakdown page 58
 by BEKi
 A first season story. What was going on between the Maquis crewmembers and the Starfleet crewmembers during those first few weeks and months they were thrown together? It wasn't an easy alliance for any of the crew. For some, it was more difficult than others, as BEKi's story shows.
- More Than Who I Am page 94
 by Judith Medina
 Lon Suder was a Maquis and a berserker, a sociopathic killer. In the end he was a hero, and not the same Lon Suder that had been tried for murder. What happened to him during his months of imprisonment to change him? Judith's story takes a close look at the mind of the sociopath.
- The End of the Beginning page 134
 by Brenda Shaffer-Shiring
 In "Investigations", Chakotay is left out of the loop in finding the traitor on the Voyager. He is hurt by this apparent lack of trust of Captain Janeway, and she knows it. How can she rebuild the trust that's been damaged? Or can she?
- Basic Resolutions page 146
 by Jordon Trevor art by Michelle Sayles
 Shortly after Captain Janeway and Chakotay return to the ship from New Earth, Chakotay is severely injured. He will recover, in time, and with help. Can the Captain help him in his recovery?
- Dust page 179
 story & art by Anne Davenport Captain Janeway and the Voyager are investigating a planet for the Senk'vasi to find out what happened to their colony. Did the dust in the mountain hold the answer?
- Timeline page 201
 compiled by Gregg Lash
- Cover Art by Beverly Chick
 Additional Art by Glenn Lash, and BEKi